NSRWA...Taking environmental action locally

North and South Rivers Watershed Association

“Stewardship of the watershed

not only benefits people and their recreational uses of the river, like swimming, fishing and shellfishing, but also animals and other life, including some threatened species such as least terns and piping plovers.”

Nik Tyack, River Camp counselor & college student

THANK YOU FOR YOUR MEMBERSHIP!

Your membership contribution will support our mission of protecting and restoring the rivers and watershed in which we live, and educating people to be environmental stewards. The NSRWA has over 2600 members, providing us with a powerful voice to advocate for environmental issues on the South Shore.

Membership entitles you to:

- Our Recreation Guide to the North and South Rivers
- Our quarterly newsletter, Riverwatch
- Invitations and discounts to our many events
- Advance notice to space limited walks and paddles
- Special offers from our corporate partners
- Weekly e-mail of events, activities and calls for action
- The knowledge that you are an effective voice protecting the South Shore

The NSRWA

PROTECTS

- Provides technical assistance to towns and community groups

Captivating in their beauty and rich in biodiversity, the North and South Rivers are two of the greatest natural treasures of the South Shore. Perfect for fishing, swimming, boating or communing with nature, the rivers are more than our outdoor playground - they nourish our hearts and minds.

Forty years ago, a visionary group foresaw the need to protect these treasures for future generations from pollution and degradation, and they formed the North and South Rivers Watershed Association.

We've made much progress over four decades, but today our work is more complex and far-reaching than ever. Protecting land from development, maintaining biodiversity, keeping water clean and plentiful, and educating the next generation to be stewards of the environment is a tall order, but we can do it with your support. Become part of a community that takes action to protect the South Shore's environment and join us today.
